INTRODUCTION

The John Wilson McConnell Fonds and Finding Aid were prepared over the summer and fall of 2004 by Shannon Hodge, Contract Archivist and Gordon Burr, Senior Archivist and Records Manager, McGill University.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The creation of the John Wilson McConnell Fonds was made possible by the generous funding of the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation. The Fonds would not be possible without the donations of records and material made by representatives of the McConnell family.

The McGill University Archives would like to thank Dr. William Fong and Mr. Nicolas McConnell for their time and expertise in the initial identification and organization of the records.

Biographical Information

Beginnings in Business

John Wilson McConnell was born in Muskoka, Ontario 01 July 1877 to John McConnell and Margaret Anne (née Wilson) McConnell, both immigrants to Canada of Ulster-Scots origin. McConnell spent his childhood and early teenage years helping on the family farm until ca1891; at which point he moved to Toronto to join an older sister already living in that growing city. The remainder of McConnell's siblings and his parents soon followed to Toronto in ca1894.

Two characteristics of McConnell's personality are obvious even from the little information on his early working years in Toronto. First, he held himself to 'clean' living and always attempted to present himself well, an influence of following Methodist teachings. Second, and most significant to McConnell's later success, he was a diligent and meticulous worker who was always quick to observe and adapt to change and opportunity. In a letter to his wife Lily, McConnell stated that his new personal motto would be, "All things come to those who hustle while they wait."

While in Toronto, McConnell quickly moved up in employment, first starting as a delivery boy for Fleming's flower shop (1891/1892) followed by varied positions each of which elevated 'Jack' a little further in education and goals: baker at Christie, Brown's Biscuit Company (1895/1896); entry clerk and bookkeeper at G. Goulding and Sons, a millinery and fancy dry goods wholesaler (1895/1896-1899); salesman at G. Goulding and Sons (1899); travelling salesman at the Standard Chemical Company (1899-1907).

It was at the Standard Chemical Company that McConnell began to shine and climb upwards in the business world. It was also the Standard Chemical Company that sent McConnell to Montreal, the city which became McConnell's home until his death in 1963. By 1901, McConnell was so successful promoting the products of Standard Chemical – the company sold the by-products of hardwood waste such as acetone which was particularly important in the manufacturing of explosives – he was promoted to manager of the Montreal office and then additionally later put him in charge of the Cookshire, Quebec plant. In 1904, McConnell was again promoted to the manager of the eastern division of Standard Chemical and also became the second vice-president of the company.

Also in 1904, McConnell made his first trip to England and Europe, travelling through the United Kingdom, France, Germany and Belgium. This particular trip, McConnell was charged with the promotion of product and stock of Standard Chemical to British officials in the hope of winning contracts for the Canadian company. McConnell returned hugely successful and managed to win meetings with the likes of Lord Strathcona (Canadian High Commissioner to Britain), Sir Hiram Maxim (inventor of the first fully automatic machine gun), and Joseph Chamberlain (British parliamentarian and social reformer). To show their gratitude for his excellent work in selling shares, Standard Chemical presented a commemorative booklet to McConnell in 1905. The booklet contained copies of the lists of subscribers to the Standard Chemical Company that McConnell gathered. The booklet also contained an extract from the minutes of the company indicating bonuses in the form of shares as well as a $500.00 cash wedding present for Jack and Lily. McConnell resigned from Standard Chemical Company in 1907, ready to concentrate on new business ventures.

(Fonds description con't)

From ca1907-1914, J.W. McConnell put all his efforts and business acumen into 'promotion'. McConnell, while still often operating on his own, joined in partnership with Hudson Allison and George Franklin Johnston. The resulting partnership of Johnston, McConnell, Allison promoted stock but also delved into insurance sales, land speculation and investments in resources such as timber and timber products.

Over the next five years McConnell and his partners travelled separately and together extensively in England and western Canada. The results from these trips and investments were more or less successful for McConnell but by 1912, the year the partnership came up for renewal, McConnell decided not to continue his business association with Johnston. Allison, in fact, had already died in April 1912 aboard the Titanic and certainly the end of the partnership with Johnston and Allison freed McConnell to concentrate on business dealings of more interest and larger returns.

McConnell's next big step in the business world concerned the take-over of Montreal Street Railway. In 1910, McConnell, along with E.A. Robert and additional investors, bought out control of the Montreal Street Railway later re-naming it Montreal Tramways Company. The company was then merged with the Canadian Light and Power Company and held under the Montreal Tramways and Power Company. The deal was to secure demand for the power produced at the Beauharnois power station owned by Canadian Light and Power. The take-over resulted in a great deal of controversy as the Montreal Street Railway had held the franchise for public transit in the city of Montreal. Robert and his associates were also accused of stock watering the Montreal Tramways Company in order to boost the less-substantive Canadian Light and Power and thus also Montreal Tramways and Power. McConnell remained as vice-president of Montreal Tramways until 1911 and vice-president of Montreal Tramways and Power until 1924. By 1925, Tramways and Power was broken up due to opposition against E.A. Robert and his supporters and their handling of the companies.

Prior to 1912, McConnell and others investors acting through the Imperial Trust had already purchased the majority of shares in the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Company re-creating the company as the St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries. In 1914, McConnell and his supporters had managed to purchase the majority of shares from St. Lawrence president Alfred Baumgarten and other investors. McConnell became president of the company in 1915 and remained so until his retirement in 1953. Also in 1915, after the sinking of the Lusitania and with the Great War causing increased resentment against German nationals, Baumgarten resigned his title of honorary president. McConnell led the sugar company through both good and lean years, such as the depression of commodities during the Depression, and at one point had to use his personal portfolio as collateral for a bank loan for the company in 1921. McConnell used the pledging of his own assets to save the company to secure complete ownership of St. Lawrence by 1924. McConnell managed the refinery profitably over the ensuing years and the company remained a family-owned business well past McConnell's death.

McConnell's best remembered endeavour, however, was the purchase of the Montreal Star Company, Ltd. and its newspapers; the Montreal Daily Star, the Standard, the Weekend and the Family Herald. McConnell purchased the majority in the company in 1925 from one of the paper's founding partners, Hugh Graham, Lord Atholstan. McConnell was prevented from taking complete control of the paper though by purchasing conditions which dictated that Atholstan would remain as president until his eventual death or severe illness. When Atholstan died in 1938, McConnell was elected as president of the company and also named his second-eldest son John as the publisher of the Herald. Upon taking over, McConnell resigned from the boards of numerous companies in which he was involved. In all, McConnell resigned from the boards of: The Bank of Montreal, the Canadian Pacific Railway, International Nickel Company, Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, Sun Life, The Borden Company (both of New York and Canada), Canada Steamships, Dominion Bridge, Dominion Rubber, Royal Trust, Holt Renfrew, and Canadian and Foreign Investment Fund. McConnell acted as president of the Montreal Daily Star until his retirement in 1953. At this time his son John became president of the publishing company. The Star passed out of McConnell family hands in 1973 when it was sold to F.P. Publications. The newspaper eventually stopped publication in 1979 due to a diminished English-language readership in Montreal and an inability to compete with the Southam-owned Montreal Gazette.

Philanthropy and Fundraising

In addition to his numerous business conquests, McConnell was known, and somewhat feared, for his ability to fundraise. From very early on and even before wealth afforded him the ability to donate large sums of money himself; McConnell was involved in social and charitable institutions. Most especially, McConnell was dedicated to the YMCA. During McConnell's long career in fundraising and philanthropic works, he was recognized as an indefatigable and formidable figure in reaching campaign goals and extracting donations out of both companies and individuals. In 1937, McConnell also established a charitable organization that would eventually become the J.W. McConnell Foundation. The Foundation was funded through profits of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries and the Montreal Star Company, Ltd. and was yet another outlet for McConnell's generous spirit. His fundraising and philanthropic works were numerous and most marked among them included:

- Chairman of the Montreal Victory Loans Committee, 1918
- Chairman of the One Day's Pay campaign as part of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, 1915-1916
- Personal donation of cobalt bombs for cancer treatment to Montreal hospitals and additionally to Quebec City and London in 1955
- Running of campaign to raise money for 'Wings for Britain' during WWII plus a personal donation of $1,000,000 for the purchase of Spitfires for the Royal Air Force (these Spitfires would later become 'McConnell's Squadron')
- Donations for the improvement of the Montreal Neurological Institute (Donation in 1934, along with Sir Herbert Holt, Mr. Walter Stewart and other anonymous donors, for the opening of the MNI and later in the 1950s, donation of funds to build the new wing of the MNI)
- Chairman of the Princess Alice Fund for the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, 1944/45
- Donation of the Griffith-McConnell Home for Elderly People and in memoriam, the J.W. McConnell Memorial Wing of the Griffith-McConnell home, 1961, 1963
- Continuous support (monetary and time) of all of Quebec's major universities, all of Montreal's hospitals, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, the Combined Jewish Appeal, and numerous other campaigns
- Chairman of the $5,000,000 campaign for McGill University, 1943/44

McConnell was also heavily involved with McGill University. McConnell acted as a governor of the university for numerous years and also donated extensively to both student scholarship funds and building needs. McGill went so far as to offer McConnell both the Chancellorship and an honorary doctorate; both of which he turned down. When McConnell retired from the Board in 1958, McGill honoured him by naming him the first Governor Emeritus of the school. In that same year, McConnell donated an additional $2,000,000 for scholarships in science and engineering; the McConnell Scholarships were originally created in 1946 to honour Canadians returning from World War II.

Additionally, over his long involvement with McGill, McConnell bought and donated or supplied funds for new construction projects for the University¹:

- Purvis Hall (1941) – McConnell purchased the residence of former McGill University governor Arthur B. Purvis after Purvis' death in 1941. The building was donated to the University in memory of Purvis.
- Chancellor Day Hall (1948) – Once the former residence of the Ross family, McConnell purchased the mansion and gave it to McGill to be used by the Faculty of Law and named in honour of Chancellor Day.
- McConnell Winter Stadium (1956) – McConnell provided the funding for the Winter Stadium which is still used as a hockey arena by the University.
- McConnell Engineering Building (1959) – The construction of this building was part of a larger $4,500,000 donation by McConnell which also supplied scholarships in engineering and science.
- Morrice Hall (1961) – Formerly the Presbyterian College, McConnell purchased and donated the building to the University once the College moved on to different quarters.

Personal and Social

On 11 May 1905, McConnell married Lily May Griffith (b.13 Sept. 1880; d. 10 Oct. 1972), daughter of the Rev. Thomas Griffith, a man whom McConnell deeply respected for his strong Methodist beliefs. Griffith was the minister of the Douglas church which McConnell attended and also taught Sunday School. McConnell met Lily at a tea party and courted her for several years before marrying. By all accounts, the couple were deeply devoted to each other and relied heavily on their partnership in marriage to build their successful places in society. Together John and Lily McConnell had four children, Wilson Griffith (b.03 Mar 1908; d.12 Jan 1966), John Griffith (b.06 Dec. 1911; d.12 Jul. 1974), Kathleen Griffith (b.06 July 1918) and David Griffith (b.16 Oct. 1923; d.17 Mar. 1963).

The McConnells were good friends with several Governors General of Canada and in particular Viscount Willingdon, Earl of Bessborough, Lord Tweedsmuir, the Earl of Athlone, Viscount Alexander and the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey. The McConnells were frequent visitors at Government House both for personal social calls and official functions such as the unveiling of the War Memorial in 1939. The McConnells in turn hosted numerous gatherings at their Val David home at which Governors General, their aides and other friends were in attendance. The McConnells' Val David home was referred to as Saran Chai and was fashioned after the huge log structures of Norway. The home was named by King Rama VII of Siam when he and his royal entourage stayed there with the McConnells in 1934.

The McConnells also travelled frequently to England to visit with friends and in 1936, during their cruise around the world, the McConnells stopped in India to visit Lord Willingdon who was near the end of his term as Viceroy. To the McConnells, 'high society' was not just a world seen in the society pages of newspapers but very much part of their everyday lives.

Most particular of note were the interactions the McConnells had with members of the British royal family. In 1937, both Lily and Kathleen McConnell were present in London during the coronation year of King George VI. In 1951, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip stayed at Saran Chai during their Canadian tour. In 1952, the McConnells were invited to Westminster Abbey for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. McConnell, however, chose to watch the coronation on television from his hotel room in the Dorchester while Lily attended the service in Westminster. McConnell also supported the charities of the royal family and assisted in numerous projects such as the building of the chapel at the University College of the West Indies led by Princess Alice.

John Wilson McConnell died November 06, 1963 after a lengthy battle with leukaemia. Upon his death, much of McConnell's vast fortune was granted to his favourite charities and institutions to build endowment and pension funds and especially to McConnell's own J.W. McConnell Foundation which was originally created in 1937. Today the Foundation exists as the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation and continues to fund social and educational projects throughout Quebec and Canada which encourage the betterment and prospects of community. Scope and Content Note

This Fonds contains records and supplementary material covering all three major aspects of the life of John Wilson McConnell: business and finance, social and philanthropic commitments, and family life. The records covering these subjects stem mainly from ca1898 to the time of McConnell's death in 1963. Additional financial records exist past this date into the early 1970s due to the trusts administered by McConnell's legacies. The nature of the records is reflected in the following series: 1) Correspondence; 2) Scrapbooks, Journals and Address books; 3) Personal and Family records; 4) Philanthropy; 5) High society; 6) Business commitments. The records in Series 4 and 5 are further subdivided into subseries: Philanthropy and Fundraising (Hospitals and Health Care; Higher Education; War Efforts); Business Commitments (Promotion; Commercial Trust Co.; Montreal Star; St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries; Property Holdings).

Custodial History

The records contained within this Fonds were obtained from several sources over the course of ten years. All of the records were collected by Dr. William Fong, biographer of J.W. McConnell and Mr. Nicolas McConnell, great-grandson of McConnell. Records were sought and taken from McConnell family members as well as from the holdings of the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation and records stored at the McConnell home on Pine Avenue. All of the records in the Fonds were directly deposited into the McGill University Archives by Dr. Fong and Mr. McConnell. The business records in the Business and Professional Commitments series are scattered and not complete in terms of McConnell's full activities. This is because McConnell periodically destroyed or had destroyed his various business records.

Please note that many pieces of correspondence, journals, scrapbooks and address books contain notes in pen or pencil not original to that item. These notes were written by Dr. Fong while the records were in his possession prior to 2004. The notes do not necessarily reflect the complete contextual information of the item.
