Biographical Sketch

Born in Preston, Ontario, now Cambridge, on June 18, 1937, Bruce Graham Trigger was schooled at St. Mary's Collegiate Institute (1951) and the Stratford Collegiate Institute (1955). He earned his B.A. from the University of Toronto in 1959, and his Ph.D. from Yale University in 1964. On December 7, 1968 he married Barbara Marian Welch, whom he had met at McGill University while she was in the midst of a campaign to permit women into the reading room of McGill University's Faculty Club. Barbara Welch Trigger was employed as a Research Associate in McGill's Department of Geography. The Triggers had two children: Isabel Marian and Rosalyn Theodora. Isabel earned a B.Sc. (Hon.) from McGill while Rosalyn received both her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Geography from McGill. Trigger also had two grandchildren, David and Madeleine.

One of the world's foremost archaeologists, Trigger participated in several significant field work expeditions. He was the Chief of the archaeological Pennsylvania-Yale expedition to Egypt in 1962. He also participated in expeditions in Ontario during the 1950s, most notably at Sheek Island. He was Staff Archaeologist of the Oriental Institute's Sudan Expedition, 1963-1964.

Trigger's career as an academic commenced at Northwestern University, Illinois, where he was an Assistant Professor from 1963-1964. In 1964 he started teaching at McGill University as an Assistant Professor, becoming an Associate Professor in 1967, and a Professor of Anthropology in 1969. He was also active in an administrative capacity at both the departmental and the university levels, occupying such positions as Chairman of Anthropology from 1970-1975, Academic Staff representative, and as a member of McGill's Board of Governors from 1996-1998. Illness forced him to retire from McGill on June 1, 2006.

Trigger's research interests were diverse, including the study of ancient civilizations, North American Ethnohistory, and the history of archaeology. As a social scientist Trigger enjoyed international renown. In particular, his studies of the Iroquoian people of Canada, as well as his contributions to Egyptology were extremely influential. It is notable that aboriginal people in Canada were very receptive to his research results. Much of Trigger's later research focused on key issues in the social sciences and history, such as the development and principles surrounding organizations, which stemmed from his interest in the growth of the economic, political, and social inequality that existed in early societies. Trigger's quest to understand the origin of inequality and power reveal his humanitarian principles and his commitment to creating a just society. He endeavored to pinpoint the origin of the authoritarian impulse in human society. As a natural extension of his beliefs, he was an ardent supporter of First Nations' rights. In one lecture he recommended that all future anthropology should be controlled by Aboriginal people. Trigger was an individual of action as evidenced by his resignation from the board of the McCord Museum when members refused to join a First Nations' organized boycott of an exhibition of native artifacts at the Calgary Olympics. In recognition for his contributions to scholarly knowledge of the First Nations, he was adopted as a member of the Huron Great Turtle Clan with the name Nyemea, meaning "one who knows how to do" in 1990.

Over the course of his influential fifty year career as an archaeologist and anthropologist, Trigger was honoured with numerous awards, distinctions, honorary degrees, and fellowships. Trigger received the Queen's Silver Jubilee Medal; the Cornplanter Medal for Iroquois Research (1979); the Innis-Gérin Medal of the Royal Society of Canada; the Prix Victor-Barbeau (1991); the Prix Léon-Gérin (Prix du Québec) of which he was the first non-francophone recipient (1991); and the J.R. Wiseman Book Award from the Archaeological Institute of America (1991, 2006). He was also an honorary member of the Prehistoric Society of the United Kingdom. Honourary degrees and doctorates included a D. Sc. from University of New Brunswick (1987); a D. Litt from the University of Waterloo; an LL.D from the University of Western Ontario (1995); a Doctor of Laws from McMaster University (1999); and a Doctor of Laws from his alma mater, the University of Toronto. Research and teaching distinctions included the Woodrow Wilson Fellowships 1959, 1963; Killam Research Fellowships 1968, 1977; and the Social Science and Humanities Research Council of Canada Leave Fellowship (1983). In recognition for his outstanding scholarly and pedagogical contributions, McGill University appointed him one of the first James McGill chairs. He also earned McGill University's 2003 Faculty of Arts Award for Distinction in Research.

As a much sought after lecturer, Trigger traveled widely presenting on diverse topics pertaining to archaeology and anthropology. Noted lectures included the Fourth Gordon Childe Memorial Lecture at the University of London (1982); the Seagram Lectures, University of Toronto (1986); the Lansdowne Visitor, University of Victoria (1987); the Harry Hawthorn Distinguished Lecture (1988); a Distinguished Lecture in Archeology, American Anthropological Association (1990); and the Distinguished Visiting Professor, American University in Cairo (1992). Trigger also lectured on issues facing universities including the necessity of maintaining independence of enquiry and thought at the academic level.

Trigger published numerous books, articles, and reviews which have been translated into many languages. He also served on the editorial board of several journals. He edited Volume I of the prestigious Cambridge History of the Native Peoples of the Americas. His classic works include The Children of Aataentsic: A History of the Huron People to 1660 (1976); Gordon Childe Revolutions in Archaeology (1980); Natives and Newcomers: Canada's "Heroic Age" Reconsidered (1985), and A History of Archaeological Thought (1989). His contributions to his field were compiled in The Archaeology of Bruce Trigger, in which 22 scholars reflect on his approaches to archaeological data.

Bruce Graham Trigger died on December 1, 2006 in Montreal, Quebec. His funeral was held at the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul on December 4, 2006.

Scope and Content Note

The fonds documents Bruce Trigger's research and teaching activities as a professor at McGill University, his participation at international conferences, his correspondence with an international network of colleagues and researchers, as well as his writing, publishing, and editorial work, and some aspects of his personal life, including his secondary and post-secondary education. Records include course materials, correspondence, publications and articles, conference papers and associated materials, speeches, research and reading notes, photographs and slides, and awards, including medals, plaques, and certificates, inclusive 1953-2006. Trigger's work as a field archaeologist is reflected in scrapbooks documenting early archaeological expeditions. The fonds consists of 20 boxes with some files arranged into subject categories while others have a chronological arrangement scheme.

The series consist of 1) Conference Papers/ Publications; 2) Course Materials/ Teaching; 3) Research/ Reading Notes/ Field Research; 4) Personal; 5) Slides.

Custodial History

The fonds was donated to McGill University Archives by Dr. Rosalyn Trigger, the daughter of Bruce Trigger in 2007. The fonds was part of the Estate of Barbara Trigger. Prior to the donation to McGill, the one part of the materials was located in Bruce Trigger's apartment in Montreal, and a second part was located in his office in McGill University's Leacock Building.

Languages: Mainly English, some French, German, Dutch, Japanese, Chinese, Thai, and Spanish.

Title: Fonds title and file titles are based on the contents of the fonds.

1) Conference Papers/ Publications. – 1963-2006. – 3.3 m of textual records and other materials.

Note: Includes 81 photographs, 3 negatives (3 X 5), 5 negatives (5 X 7), 2 glass plate negatives, and 10 slides.

This series documents Trigger's scholarly contributions, in the form of conference papers, publications, reviews, and editorial work for peer-reviewed publications, mainly from his years at McGill University's Department of Anthropology, 1963-2006. Professional correspondence is also found within these files, which are arranged by date of conference or publication date. These files demonstrate Trigger's prolific publication output, his correspondence with an extensive network of colleagues in the international research community, as well as the diversity of his research interests, ranging from indigenous cultures to ancient civilizations.

Files relating to conferences and symposia, as well as reviews, articles, and books provide insight into Trigger's approaches to organizing his research, some of the major contributions he made to the field, as well as his role as a much sought after lecturer. Record types include correspondence, conference proceedings, manuscripts, articles, reprints, editorial guidelines, drafts, and lecture notes, 1949-2006 (Container 1, Files 1-43; 44-134; Container 3, Files 135-206; Container 4, Files 209-278; Container 6, Files 290-296; 298-308; 311-312, 316, 320, 335-336; Container 7, Files 337-349, 351-361, 363-404; Container 8, Files 420, 422-424; Container 9, Files 430-484; Container 11, Files 524-537; Container 12, Files 561-564; Container 14, Files 573-578, 580, 586-588, 599; Container 15, Files 602-604, 619-620; Container 16, Files 641-642, 645-646; Container 17, Files 647-659, 661, 664-674, 676-723). These files document Trigger's passion for archaeology, his efforts to stay current in terms of the literature in the field, and his respected position in the international arena. For example, Trigger was the editor of Volume I of the prestigious Cambridge History of the Native Peoples of the Americas. Artwork for this volume, as well as book reviews, reveal Trigger's level of involvement with the project, 2003 (Container 14, File 598). Conferences of note include the Seagram Lectures I and II at the University of Toronto (1986) where Trigger delivered a paper entitled "The Historian's Indian: Native Americans in Canadian Historical Writing from Charlevoix to the Present", 1989-1997, 1985-1986 (Container 1, Files 41, 42), and the Fourth Gordon Childe Memorial Lecture at the Institute of Archaeology, the University of London (1982). Trigger's lecture, entitled "If Childe were Alive Today", 1981-1983 (Container 3, File 175) is a fine example of his long standing research interest in V. Gordon Childe and Childe's contributions to archaeological theory and his relationship to Soviet/ Marxist archaeology, 1977-1986 (Container 3, Files 142-143, 174-175).

Materials relating to Trigger's books include drafts of published and unpublished manuscripts, research notes, reviews, and correspondence with colleagues and publishers, as well as translations of these works into numerous languages, 1990-2004 (Container 1, Files 19, 20; Container 3, File 192; Container 6, Files 294, 311; Container 15, File 621-622; Container 7, File 372; Container 9, Files 482-483). Records pertaining to Trigger's seminal texts contain complete drafts, manuscript notes, correspondence, and publication information. For example, The Children of Aataentsic, 1975-2002 (Container 2, Files 95-96; Container 3, File 196; Container 7, File 342 ; Container 9, File 434, Container 14, File 579; Container 17, File 662, 663, 675, 710, 718); Understanding Early Civilizations, 1995-2005 (Container 6, File 295; Container 11, Files 525-537; Container 15, File 618), and A History of Archaeological Thought, 1989-2004 (Container 6, File 301; Container 7, File 340, 371; Container 9, File 460) are comprehensive in this regard. In particular, A History of Archaeological Thought, which also includes notes for the revised edition, 1991-2002 (Container 11, Files 524), as well as correspondence with Cambridge University Press regarding the index for the book, demonstrate the writing, editorial, and publication processes from the perspective of an academic in a comprehensive manner, 1989-2004 (Container 15, Files 614-1-617, 623-626).

A comprehensive list of Trigger's publications is available in the accession file.

2) Course Materials/ Teaching. – 1967-2006 – .45 m of textual records, 1 photo, and course overheads.

This series relates to Trigger's teaching activities in McGill's Department of Anthropology, 1964-2006. Included are detailed lecture notes, class outlines, examinations, and teaching evaluations, 1978-2005 (Container 12, Files 544-551, Files 553-555; Container 17, Files 724-741). These files are arranged by course number. As well, correspondence between Trigger and undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral students is found in this series, 2001-2006 (Container 12, File 557; Container 10, Files 510, 552). The aforementioned files reflect Trigger's commitment to his pedagogical role, his meticulous revision and record keeping of course curricula, and the high regard his students felt for him.

Some administrative correspondence and annual report excerpts from the Department of Anthropology reflect Trigger's involvement with his department, McGill's Board of Governors, and with other staff members, 1967-1996, 1981-2003 (Container 4, File 280; Container 12, File 558). Correspondence files, meeting agendas, and reports from the McGill Joint Committee on Religious Studies document Trigger's activities on this committee, as well as his commitment to this area of study, 1997-1999 (Container 16, Files 634-636). A sabbatical leave application form, 2000-2004 (Container 14, File 582) and Trigger's final office schedule are also located in this series (Container 8, File 309). Recognition for his contributions to pedagogy include correspondence files pertaining to the distinction of being named James McGill Professor, 2000-2006 (Container 7, File 325), as well as his final report for this period, 2006 (Container 15, File 610). A McGill Quarter Century Club photo is also included, in recognitions for 25 years of service at McGill, 1989 (Container 21).

Correspondence pertaining to the Killam Award, curriculum vitae, Trigger's project outlines and proposals, 1988-2003 (Container 8, File 413; Container 16, File 638) and Trigger's Professor emeritus file, 2006 (Container 6, File 317) reveal how he was regarded as a highly esteemed professor at McGill.

3) Research/ Reading Notes. – 1936- 2006. – .6 m of textual records and other materials.

Note: Includes 153 photographs, 15 slides, 1 CD-ROM, and 5 microfiche.

This series documents Trigger's scholarly research activities, primarily from his years as a professor in McGill's Department of Anthropology; as well, some scrapbooks, photos, and slides record his archaeological fieldwork in Northern Ontario when he was a student during the 1950s, as well as his time in Egypt and the Sudan as a professional archaeologist during the early 1960s.

Textual records include research notebooks from Trigger's student days (Container 14, Files 589-590) and his research material for his biography of Gordon Childe, 1936-1993 (Container 8, Files 425-427). Trigger's office library in McGill's Leacock building contained reading notes, correspondence with author's from books and journals housed in Trigger's library, and clippings that were interfiled within the publications in the library, 1972-2006 (Container 10, Files 485-508). These files are arranged alphabetically by author or by publication. Further evidence of Trigger's research activities and approaches to organizing research materials is found in a card catalogue tray that is alphabetically arranged by author. Additionally, reading notes that were organized by country/ geographical area of interest reveal the breadth and scope of Trigger's research interests (Container 13, Files 565-572; Container 14, Files 591-594).

Scrapbooks containing photos, news articles, correspondence, and archaeological plans document Trigger's time as a field work archaeologist. More specifically, a Sheek Island Scrapbook, Molson Fieldnotes, in 2 volumes, and hand drawn maps and notes of Nubia capture the essence of archaeological methodology, as well as the excitement involved in archaeological fieldwork, 1957-1985 (Container 19, Files 742-745). A file entitled Sheek Island papers, contains additional photos and newsclippings on this early excavation where Trigger participated as a student, 1957 (Container 4, File 208).

4) Personal. – 1953-2006. – 1 m of textual records, 15 photos, and 11 artifacts.

This series consists of personal materials ranging from biographical information to records documenting Trigger's student life to honours and awards. This series also contains newspaper clippings on Trigger, as well as personal correspondence files.

Biographical information consists of correspondence with biographical information sources such as Who's Who, as well as a curriculum vitae and official documents such as an expired passport, 1984-2005, 1961, 2006 (Container 8, Files 405, 406; Container 6, File 323). Textual records include newspaper clippings and articles on Trigger, including Boyce Richardson's article in Saturday Night, 1958-1996 (Container 15, File 581; Container 4, File 207; Container 6, File 326), which celebrates Trigger's intellectual contributions to society. Also included in this series are files entitled "Lubicon Business", 1987-1988 (Container 5, 281-284), which provide a thorough overview of Trigger's resignation from the board of the McCord Museum when members refused to join a First Nations' organized boycott of an exhibition of native artifacts at the Calgary Olympics, as well as a subject file entitled "Native Issues", 1978-1991 (Container 6, File 327) which reveals his interest in First Nations' issues. Trigger's lengthy involvement with the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul in Montreal, including his participation in the Presbyterian College Continuing Education Program, is also documented here, 1992, 1998-2005 (Container 7, File 362; Container 16, File 640). Agendas from Trigger's office record his daily appointments and deadlines, 1984-2005 (Container 16, Files 627-633).

Trigger's activities as a student are documented by old high school and university yearbooks, 1953-1979 (Container 8, File 416; Container 10, Files 417-418); his Sigma Xi initiation and certificate, 1963 (Container 8, File 411; Container 21, File 2); as well as his university degrees, 1959-1964 (Container 21, Files 6-7) and University of Toronto class graduation photos, 1959 (Container 21, File 20 and unnumbered). A selection of Trigger's student papers reveals Trigger's early scholarly potential, 1958-1959 (Container 12, Files 539-540; Container 14, Files 584-585; Container 16, File 637). A play manuscript entitled Ikhnaton: A Verse Play in Five Acts demonstrates Trigger's effort at creative writing (Container 8, File 414). These records reveal how Trigger carefully documented his past, commencing in his teenage years, as well as his level of involvement in both scholastic and extracurricular activities. Additional correspondence files include early job offers from several universities, 1959-1961 (Container 4, File 279; Container 5, File 289).

Nominations of friends and colleagues for diverse awards, his own awards and accompanying letters and speeches, as well as memberships in honorary societies, 1983 (Container 8, File 412) reveal the extent of Trigger's social network and his prominence in his field. In particular, Trigger's nomination of Jerome Rousseau, a colleague and friend in McGill's Department of Anthropology, for the Royal Society of Canada, demonstrates Trigger's regard for others, 1999 (Container 12, File 563). Another example of this includes Trigger's convocation speech for the awarding of Dr. Marc-Adélaide Tremblay's honorary degree, 1998 (Container 5, File 287). This series also contains correspondence files, certificates, convocation programs, and convocation speeches from Trigger's own honorary degrees which he received from McMaster University, 1999 (Container 5, File 286); the University of Waterloo, 1990, 1987-1990 (Container 5, File 288; Container 8, File 410); the University of New Brunswick, 1987-1990 (Container 14, File 583; Container 8, File 410); the University of Western Ontario, 1987-1995 (Container 17, File 660; Container 8, File 410; Container 21, File 13); the University of Toronto, 2002-2003 (Container 6, File 297; Container 21, File 13; Container 16, File 643); and the University of Waterloo, 1990-1993 (Container 7, File 350).

Trigger earned such distinctions as the Order of Canada (Container 6, File 310, 328); the Innis Guérin Medal (Container 8, File 407); the Corn Planter medal (Container 8, File 408); the Ordre du Quebec, 2001 (Container 12, File 541); and the Prix du Quebec, 1991-2001 (Container 12, File 543). Associated artifacts, certificates, plaques, medals, and memorabilia are also found here, 1955-2006 (Container 21, Files 1, 2-5, 8-12, 14-18, 26). Additional speech notes, news clippings, and correspondence files accompany Trigger's many honours, 1958-2006 (Container 6, File 321; Container 10, File 518; Container 15, File 611; Container 16, File 639; Container 8, File 409).

The impact of Trigger's fifty year distinguished career as an archaeologist is best exemplified in Retrospection: The Archaeology of Bruce Trigger, in which 22 of his colleagues and friends reflect on his significant contributions to the discipline of archaeology, 2003-2006 (Container 6, File 318). Trigger, himself, reflects on his own career in an interview by Eldon entitled "Understanding Antiquity- Bruce Trigger on his life's work in archaeology", 2005-2006 (Container 6, File 319; Container 15, File 609). Correspondence files, conference programs, and drafts for Trigger's festschrift and symposium demonstrate the stature he attained as a scholar, 2003-2006 (Container 15, Files 612-613).

Trigger's declining health is documented by get well cards and correspondence from friends, students, and close colleagues, and letters of condolence to his family in the aftermath of Trigger's death, 2006 (Container 6, Files 324, 322; Container 21, Files 23-25). Trigger's obituary, eulogy, and funeral program are also found in this series, 1954-2006, 1985-2006 (Container 6, Files 329-334; Container 8, File 415, 428-429; Container 10, Files 519-523).

5) Slides. – 1960-1992. — Approximately 1190 slides and other materials.

Note: Includes 1 photo, 2 glass plate negatives and .007 m of textual records.

Series consists of slides documenting Trigger's research and teaching activities including his fieldwork in Egypt, Nubia, and the Sudan during the early 1960s (Container 20).

Also included in the series are pamphlets entitled "Art and Architecture of Ancient Egypt", which correspond with slides Sets 1-9 and Egypt and Nubia Slide Brochures, 1980-1992 (Container 14, File 601; Container 15, File 602). These pamphlets provide context for the slides.
